

The image shows the front cover of a book. The cover is primarily a dark, charcoal grey color with a fine, woven texture. A vertical strip of a lighter, off-white or light grey material runs down the right edge, also with a similar woven texture. The spine of the book is visible on the left, showing the same dark textured material. There is no text or title visible on the cover.